

Singapore Polytechnic and e2i Collaborate To Enhance and Boost Competencies and Employability of Workforce

Singapore Polytechnic (SP) students going into the workforce can look forward to greater support and career guidance under a new MOU signed between SP and NTUC's Employment & Employability Institute (e2i). The partnership aims to steer students towards making better decisions to enter jobs they are trained in and to continuously excel in their career paths through a series of workshops, industry career advisory and networking sessions.

The collaboration will tap on e2i's expertise, industry networks and resources in employment and employability and further strengthens SP's existing Education & Career Guidance (ECG) efforts.

Click here for the full media articles